Hi Lili. Please visit the following link to Barco Products with many choices for park benches, but I think I found one for this instance: http://www.barcoproducts.com/classic-style-inground-bench for a 8 foot park bench installed in the ground with cement. It is called the Classic Style Inground Bench listed for $518.85 plus shipping with a product number of KBC 1425-BN for a brown color. That seems to be the closest I can find on the market to match the previous and current benches. An exact match is not required nor is there a special style that we must adhere to. These two primary choices are less expensive than many other bench products and simpler in design with the added benefit of fewer slats that may need replacing due to potential vandalism or damage.

You may also consider this in ground-mounted 8' bench with no armrests at Belson Outdoors with a brown back and black frame with a product number of RP8WBNA-1 listed for $639 plus shipping shown at this website https://www.belson.com/Recycled-Plastic-Park-Benches Of course, if you find comparable benches that work better for you or are cheaper, then please research them, just let me know what you are considering. I notified the Public Works Department and they are fine with us choosing our own quality product. They emphasized the importance of cementing in the bench on site so it is safe and stable and I'm sure we all agree on that. Let me know if you have more questions.

If you want to upgrade to a better looking / better quality bench for the future starting now to replace old benches as they wear out with the newer / better ones, then feel free to explore your ideas and run them by us. Otherwise, I think any one of the two primary choices I showed you here will be fine to replace the missing bench at the Southshore Coastal Trailhead. Thanks. ---Dave

Hi David –

I'm talking to Angel right now. Do you know where we can find a bench similar to that one? Do you have a vendor you normally use? do they have a catalog? Any information will be helpful.
Thank you!

Hi Lili. I hope you are well today. Say, we had to remove a vandalized bench that someone had removed from its spot at the Southshore Coastal Trailhead. They poised it on the edge of the cliff, so we had to tow it back and dismantle it to get it out of there. It was unusable as you can see on one of the attached photos at it is lying on the ground.

Another photo shows the vacant spot where a new bench needs to go back in. It can be similar to the other remaining bench that is currently nearby on the other side of the picnic table. The attached aerial photo shows the location of the vandalized bench (to the right of the blue triangle) prior to it being damaged. Would you folks be able to handle this replacement sometime soon? This is a primary visitor overlook spot and should have all the original number of benches in place. Let me know at your convenience how you plan to proceed. Thank you. ---Dave
